Making Champions In China

China wants to be the world's number 1 country at international sports competitions. It's training thousands of young people to "bring home the gold". In China there are 3,000 special schools to train young athletes. The Chinese government sends experts to every city, town and village in the country to find potential champions. These experts are looking for special talents and the right body shape. The children often start their training at the age of nine. They live, study and train at the sports schools. Life isn't easy for the young athletes, but they feel proud because they are doing something important for their country. It is a great honour.
